250 Dead, Many Injured As Libya Is Hit by Earthquakes

BENGHAZI, Libya (AP)—Two more earthquakes struck Al Marj today following a shattering temblor Thursday, destroying more than 80 per cent of the coastal town, and killing at least 250 persons.

Hospitals in Al Marj and Benghazi, 55 miles to the southwest, were filled with injured. The U.S. Air Force gave the number of injured as at least 500.

Rescue workers dug through the debris for others feared trapped or killed. U.S. and British military forces and Libyan soldiers and police rushed food and tents to survivors.

The quakes centered in an area of 20 square miles in and around

Al Marj, which has a population of 50,000.

The first shock struck at sundown Thursday as most persons were sitting down to their evening meals.

People fled into the streets. Buildings and houses toppled, trapping many in the ruins.

A second shock came at 7:30 a.m. as relief workers toiled in the ruins. The third came an hour and a half later.

British troops took charge of rescue operations after an appeal for help from local Libyan authorities.

British aid was flown from the Benghazi area and from Cyprus. A British-American control center was established in Al Marj.

U.S. relief supplies were flown in from the Air Force's Wheelus base near Tripoli, 300 miles west of the quake area.

The Libyan government declared an emergency throughout the country.

U.S. planes rushed medical personnel to the area.

The unofficial low in the area was recorded at the Salem sewage disposal plant where the thermometer stood at -19 at 6 a.m. In downtown Salem at the time, the temperature was -6.

The average temperature for this time of year is 29 degrees, Copeland said, but the mercury is not expected to reach that balmy region for several days.

More Snow Is Likely

The Ohio five-day forecast issued today predicts that temperatures will average 14 to 18 degrees below normal in the northeastern part of the state. The average high in northeastern Ohio at this time of year is 35-40 and the average low, 21-23.

Slightly moderating temperatures are expected through Sunday, with a return to colder weather Monday. Snow flurries are predicted tonight and again on Monday and Tuesday.

Low temperature records were set in many sections of the state last night. Previous marks were established in most areas in 1885. The Feb. 22 low of 1.5 below in Cleveland that year was shattered early last night when the mercury dropped to -8.

Temperatures in the Cincinnati area ranged between 5 and 10 below, a lot colder than the 1.7 below record set in 1885. At Dayton, the mercury dropped to -10, just nipping the -9 mark established that year.

Other readings were: Columbus, -8; Toledo, -8, and Marietta, 4. Sub-zero temperatures were recorded all over the state.

Thousands of county school children enjoyed the luxury of sleeping late this morning, but not because of the weather. Leeonia, Columbiana, Lisbon and East Palestine schools were closed to permit teachers to attend a teachers' workshop in Columbiana.

U. S. Military Ordered To Return MIGs' Fire

Revamping Of Sunday Law Nearly Done

Revised Measure Will Simplify Job Of Enforcement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio police officials probably will be asked to enforce a new set of Sunday closing laws for retail business.

It is beginning to look as though the job is going to be difficult, to say the least.

The aim is to simplify the present so-called blue laws to make their intent clear to law enforcement officials everywhere.

The proposal being whipped up in a subcommittee of the Ohio House Judiciary Committee has, in the words of Chairman Edmund James, R-Noble, come up with an answer to demands for a Sunday closing law to end confusion over enforcement of present law.

James said the new measure, which probably will come up for a final committee vote next Tuesday, will depart from the present ban on Sunday labor, except for work of necessity and charity.

There will be, he added, a series of clearly spelled out exemptions for Sunday sales.

Present law prohibits the opening of an Ohio place of business on Sunday in which anyone would engage in common labor. The proposed law gets entirely away from the common labor theory and sets up a ban against the sale of real or personal property on Sunday, except for a list of articles necessary for the health, safety and welfare of purchasers and for charitable purposes.

James said the measure will include a safety valve feature, stating that sale of unlisted property would require the seller to show that the transaction was in accord with requirements for necessity or charity.

Persons signing false statements to the effect that their Sunday purchases were of a necessary or charitable nature would be violators.

Casual sales, such as the sale of an owner's auto, would be exempt along with sales by those who conscientiously observe Saturday as their Sabbath.

Maximum fine for initial violators under the new law would be $200 with a $500 fine and 30 days in jail for repeaters.

Here is the proposed list of exemptions from the Sunday-sale ban:

Prescription, patent and proprietary medicines, surgical and sickroom supplies, personal hygienic and infant supplies and

U.S. Faces Possible Guerrilla Warfare In Caribbean Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may be facing a period of virtual guerrilla warfare in the Caribbean area around Cuba.

Whether this dangerous possibility develops appears to depend primarily on how Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro decides to diplomatic advisers are not sure what was behind this assault on a small, unarmed vessel in international waters. The President said he was watching to see whether a pattern develops, meaning a pattern of attacks against surface and aircraft traveling in the region round Castro's stronghold.

If it turns out that the strike at the shrimp boat was an isolated incident without Cuban government's sanction, concerns felt in the top levels of the administration here will ease off somewhat.

The Cuban government said Thursday night it was not responsible for the attack.

What the shrimp boat affair has dramatized for the moment is Castro's ability to make trouble if he wants to.

Cuba is almost completely isolated economically and diplomatically by the Western Hemisphere nations and is under surveillance by U.S. aircraft.

Kennedy told the news conference that Castro's economy is in bad shape and is being subsidized by the Soviet Union. He said various forms of Soviet assistance to Cuba now cost Moscow about $1 million daily.

Castro's capacity to carry out a campaign of harassment is provided at the moment primarily by MIG fighters. But as Soviet forces are withdrawn from the island under Premier Khrushchev's promise to Kennedy, other types of weapons may fall into Castro's hands.

Those include highly developed anti-aircraft missiles, capable of shooting down this country's high-flying U2 reconnaissance planes; coastal defense rockets capable of striking ships about 25 miles at sea, and naval patrol boats also armed with short range rockets.

use the extensive arms, including jet fighter planes, supplied to him by the Soviet Union.

President Kennedy, as he made clear at a news conference Thursday, is watching the situation closely and with several unanswered questions in his mind about the fighter plane attack late Wednesday on a U.S. shrimp boat in the Florida Straits about 60 nautical miles off the Cuban coast.

Kennedy and his military and

Congress Expected To Delay Decision

No Action Seen on Medicare Until '64

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress won't decide on President Kennedy's health care program before next year, key supporters and opponents agreed today.

The President is hopeful of quicker action on his renewed plea to provide care for the aged through an increase in Social Security taxes. At his news conference Thursday he said, "I think we might get the bill by this year."

But clearly aware of the long road ahead Kennedy also remarked that the measure "has the problem of coming out of the Ways and Means Committee."

This committee is just getting into stride in its work on a more complex and higher-priority Kennedy program—the tax reduction and revision bill.

Public hearings on this measure are expected to run through next month and committee consideration through May.

There is no prospect whatever, reliable sources said, that the committee will take up the health bill before the House acts on the tax measure, perhaps in June, and if the Senate passes the tax bill and a conference to adjust differences is necessary, this would mean a further interruption in the progress of health legislation.

Even Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., chief House sponsor of the measure to provide hospital benefits for some 18 million aged persons, stopped short of predicting final action this year.

King said he hopes the Ways and Means Committee and the House will act favorably this year. This would leave the struggle in the Senate still to come.

In the Senate, there is no discussion, stopped short of predicting final action this year.

Stern Warning Given Cuba On Attack on Ship

Island Government Denies Role In Wednesday Incident

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has laid down an unmistakable warning that U.S. firepower will blast any Cuban-based warships or planes that dare attack American vessels or aircraft.

But Kennedy indicated Thursday that, for the time being at least, American jet fighters and Navy craft will be restrained from chasing attackers back to Cuba to punish them.

If Wednesday's MIG strafing of a wallowing shrimp boat develops into a pattern of attacks, the President may then give the signal for "hot pursuit."

Several hours after Kennedy uttered the warning at a news conference, the Cuban government "rejected and denied categorically" the charge that its jets poured rocket fire near the disabled shrimp boat Ala in the Florida Straits Wednesday afternoon.

And Prime Minister Fidel Castro was expected to have something to say about it in a televised address tonight.

Once before, when a U2 was shot down at the peak of the Cuban crisis last fall, a stern U.S. warning apparently deterred any more anti-aircraft missile firings on U.S. reconnaissance planes operating over Cuba.

Congressional critics were not stilled by Kennedy's orders that "all necessary action" be taken by the military force to prevent any more attacks like the strafing of the helpless shrimp boat.

Several suggested the incident discredited the administration's contention that the Soviet-built MIGs are in Cuba for defensive, rather than offensive operations against the United States. Kennedy said he saw no reason to change his view.

Kennedy said he had instructed the Pentagon to make "any necessary revisions in standing orders so as to insure that action will be taken against any vessel or aircraft" which strikes at an American ship or plane over Caribbean international waters.

He didn't elaborate, and defense officials refused to discuss either the standing orders or the charge.

But competent sources said it was quite clear the President is broadening the present rules under which U.S. fighter planes and Navy vessels are empowered to open fire on approaching aircraft or warships if they appear bent on attacking U.S. territory.

Furthermore, these sources said, the President's orders probably will result in placing more fast jets on strip alert, ready to take off.

Navy and Marine Phantom jets are poised at all times at the Key West Naval Air Station, 90 miles across the Florida Straits from Cuba's north coast. At Homestead Air Force Base south of Miami, Air Force F10 jets also are on alert.

The Navy operates combat air patrols in the sensitive area between the Florida Keys and Cuba. Jet fighters fly with weapons cocked. There now may be more such patrols. Powerful radar scans the Cuban coast constantly.

Asked at his news conference if an assault similar to the one on the shrimp boat might have been

3rd Woman Aviator In U.S. Spent Girlhood In Canton

By HELEN CARRINGER
News Staff Writer

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—The third woman in the United States to fly an airplane solo spent her girlhood in Canton, and she wants the Stark County Historical Society here to have her bronze plaque commemorating that event.

Miss Bernetta Adams Miller, 79, a resident of New Hope, Pa., is busy now compiling data for the Smithsonian Institution and the National Air Museum on her days as a pioneer pilot.

The plaque she is donating was awarded her by the Early Birds, an organization of pioneer aviators, for a solo flight she made Sept. 25, 1912.

The most important flying of her brief career as an aviatrix was type monoplane—a dangerous and tricky craft she demonstrated for the U.S. government at College Park, Md.

She won her pilot's license earlier that year at the Moisant Aviation School at Minola on Long Island. The Moisant brothers already had taught their sister how to fly. Matilda Moisant and Harriet Quimby, a New York reporter, had made solo flights before that made by Miss Miller, last living member of the trio.

"To obtain a pilot's license in those days was not complicated," Miss Miller recalls. "We did not have all the gadgets they have now—no regulating of speed. It was go and stop. We had to make 10 figure eights around the markers, go at least 1,000 feet high, as I recollect, and land within 150 feet of a given spot."

When her ambition turned skyward, Miss Miller held an office job in New York City.

Until then, about the most exciting thing in her life had been the election of a Canton man, William McKinley, to the presidency. From the bay window of her home on Market Avenue North, she had watched "all the delegations that arrived with bands and floats to greet him."

About her decision to fly, Miss Miller's father "knew nothing until my name appeared in the papers," Miss Miller said. She made up her mind to win her wings for several reasons — "partly adventure, partly boredom with office work and also the desire to make money."

The latter motive, she soon learned, was wrong. "It cost me plenty," she explained, and that was the major reason she gave up flying.

"I couldn't afford the luxury. With my living expenses, I was involved up to $5,000. I canceled an insurance policy and used all the money I had in the bank, but I paid off every penny. "In those days we were all thought to be fools. Now we are considered pioneers."

Her urge to fly has been gone for some years now, Miss Miller admits. She has no desire to make a jet flight.

"That's a terrible thing for a pioneer to say," she added. "I simply feel that when emergencies arise a pilot does not have time to think. It was risky enough in the old days. . . ."

RECEIVE SURPLUS CORN

Columbiana County farmers have received their 10th carload of surplus corn to alleviate the effects of last summer's drought, according to Earl Lora, office manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office in Lisbon.

Approximately 95 farmers requested the cattle feed which is made available at a reduced rate of about $1 per bushel.

TV 'Pickings' Pretty Good Next Few Days

By CYNTHIA LORY

AP Television Radio riter
NEW YORK (AP)—Television pickings, if you are careful what you pick, look pretty good during the next few days.

In variety it ranges from special with Maurice Chevalier, Victor Borge, Carol Burnett and Edie Adams to a middle-weight title bout.

Chronologically, the next few days' highlights shape up like this:

"The World of Maurice Chevalier," a nostalgic biographical treatment of the life of the great French entertainer, will be seen on NBC tonight (8:30-9:30 EST). Middleweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria will defend his title against the man he took it from, Gene Fullmer, on Saturday night in Las Vegas. ABC will televise the fight (10 to conclusion.) "Carol and Company," Carol Burnett's special, will wind up CBS' Sunday night schedule (10-11).

Victor Borge, in one of his occasional comedy specials, will have a show on ABC Monday night. Guest stars will be pianist Marcel Marceau and pianist Leonid Hambro — and the program will come from New York's Philharmonic Hall in Lincoln Center.

Henry Fonda and Polly Bergen star in Tuesday's "Tissue of Fate," a drama on NBC (9:30-10:30), and Edie Adams, with Eddi Fisher as guest star, will have another half-hour musical on ABC (10:30-11).

"Self Portrait," a new, occasional series, will have its debut on CBS Wednesday night (7-8) with presidential news secretary Pierre Salinger being interviewed

Regional Planning

The study committee for regional planning in Columbiana County has come up with what we consider an intelligent report of recommendations—all designed to help the progress and prosperity of our county in the important years that lie ahead.

A noteworthy feature of each of the five phases of suggestions was the recommendation of "a continuing educational program to keep the public informed." This is extremely important because some of the best plans of many organizations have failed because an unenlightened or skeptical public was not given all the facts. The committee's awareness of this is evident by its repeated reminder that a specific program of education and information on the purpose, duties and limitations of a planning commission is essential.

COLUMBIANA COUNTY does not have a planning commission. It DOES need one!

There is no over-all plan to show us the direction in which our county is moving, yet our county commissioners have the responsibility annually to spend millions of dollars in the operation of county government. It seems obvious that a planning commission has been a long-neglected agency.

Nearly half of Ohio's 88 counties have planning commissions and are benefiting in untold ways by systematically tackling immediate problems and making long-range plans for others.

Our study committee has thoughtfully suggested a county planning commission on a regional basis, in order that municipalities within the county can participate. This sensible recommendation ought to meet with public favor since the need for town and country to pull together in charting future growth was never greater. Thus, the commission could plan for both urban and rural areas.

MANY PARTS OF Columbiana County, and particularly the northern sector, are growing rapidly but there is a need for better coordination on such public services as highways, land use, water supply, sewage and garbage disposal, and other improvements effecting community development.

We believe that a planning commission will provide that proper direction and the time to start is now—not next year.

Nearly Everybody Wants to Work

The Ohio Welfare Department says it will go to the Legislature for authority to start a no work-no-relief policy in Ohio.

It should have no trouble getting the authority it needs. But most recipients of relief will wish the policy could go all the way. Work is what they're wishing they had. If they had work they wouldn't need relief.

The temptation exists to jump to the conclusion that relief rolls are packed with chiselers. To be sure, chiselers are there. Chiselers are everywhere. Some are on private payrolls. Some are on public payrolls.

A few people — few relative to the many who wouldn't think of doing it — are making careers of public charity, just as in the past mendicants made careers of private charity.

They give the many who must appeal for help in good faith a black eye. The problem is not simple. It is unpleasant and grim.

But it exists. The Ohio Welfare Department is justified in doing what it can to minimize it. Authority to withhold relief from able-bodied recipients who won't work is not an extreme request.

There is no simple, ready-made solution to the problem, however.

The Ohio Welfare Department obviously is not going to punish a family because its potential breadwinner lacks the inclination to work.

It is not going to enforce a policy if it means going back to New Deal Boondoggling in an absence of useful work to be performed.

It is not going to make a fetish of something at the expense of the preponderant majority of relief clients, who want to work and are waiting for a chance to prove it.

Olive Leaves Will Follow

Baseball starts its annual rise from the ashes of the previous season this week. Players are converging on the official points of hope sprinkled through the warm climates.

Some are going early; they want a head start. Some will hang back; they think it's too long a season to be in a hurry. All of us wish all of them the best of everything. May they never catch a spike sliding into second. May their line drives fall safe, their legs never give out and their batting eye stay sharp as a hawk's.

We count on these people. What we do, in a manner of speaking, is to send them out on a quest for reassurance about spring, due in five weeks.

If they ever failed to come back with an olive leaf we'd be goners. Nothing muscles up our morale like the news that rookies are batting .456 in exhibition games and outfielders with the agility of rabbits and outfielders who can run like gazelles and overwhelm pitchers with sheer power at the plate are three-deep at every position.

There hasn't been too much to be exultant about the last little while. But the ball players are on their way South. The olive leaf will be along presently.

New Voice From a Back Bench

There was every compelling reason to believe Britain's Labor party would turn to Harold Wilson for leadership after it had given George Brown a run for his money. This was done when the first vote on Hugh Gaitskell's successor failed to give Wilson a clear majority.

Deputy leader Brown having failed to make the grade, the way was open for Wilson, the party's leading intellectual and what he has been preparing to do—follow Gaitskell.

His first move as Labor party spokesman is against the Polaris pact entered into a Nassau by Prime Minister Macmillan. If he supplants Macmillan as prime minister, in the event of a Conservative party defeat this year, he will "ban the bomb." Britain will drop out of the "nuclear club."

This is a hard shock to U.S. sensibilities.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

That was a nice amusing piece you wrote a while ago about the way to get a big job done is to tell someone you don't think he can handle it and he will break his neck to prove you wrong. Now, all you have to do is to figure out how to get us to do little, boring, routine, repetitious jobs.

Or how do you get someone to do a big job over again once he has proved he can do the first time? Your technique does not work the second time, because you get the answer: "Oh I did that once. It's easy."

Jobs in this category that come to mind include: mowing the lawn, doing the dishes, weeding the garden and other such household chores.

In business and industry there are thousands of these projects in which a new broom will sweep clean but miss some of the corners the next time around.

As one who has not known his automobile license number since his youthful enthusiasm of 30 years ago and is never sure he even knows his own home telephone number, I intend to sit out the current squabble over the seven-digit telephone numbers and all-number calling. I'll have to settle for knowing my street address and let it go at that. At least I'll be able to find my house.

It came as a shock to read an article in the paper describing how to do such simple things as driving a nail, using a chisel and other elementary operations with hand tools. This advice was offered for softies who have gone overboard on power tools and forgotten how things used to be done in the Dark Ages. Are we that far away from 10 or 20 years ago? In case you are interested, you tap a small nail lightly with a wrist movement but hit a big nail harder, bending your elbow. That's what it said. No kidding.

The current standoff between Russia and the United States, with China voicing most of the belligerency, reminds me of when we were schoolboys and someone named China would say to someone named Russia: "You and him fight; I'll hold your coat."

One minor mystery I wonder about is why when I pick up a new word, geographical place name, or the name of some historical figure new to me, that name pops up again within a week. Instead of feeling superstitious about this I prefer to believe it is the result of being aware of the name for the first time; the name probably has been there off and on all my life. The latest instance involved Samuel Slater (1768-1835), an Englishman who came to America and rebuilt from memory English textile machinery which earned him the title "the father of American manufacturing." The day after I read about Slater in a book, I heard a radio program telling about his accomplishments.

This new gimmick of making hogs stand on their hind legs to get their food, thus developing heavier hams, is the latest in the long line of tricks used to improve animals and plants, but it should give us all cause for thought. My hams are kind of skinny. How are yours, Twill?

Faithfully yours,
MAX

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Are Nikita Khrushchev's feelings and his possible annoyance over criticism from this country more important than an insistence on the basic principles of America's foreign policy?

This question is asked because Adlai Stevenson, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, as just made a curious comment bearing on that point. He told a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations that he "would not be surprised if the Russian premier took his troops out of Cuba 'unless we make it too embarrassing for him to back down again.'"

What is so "embarrassing" about asking a ruler to fulfill his promises to maintain peace and to remove a military force that constitutes a threat to peace? Isn't it more "embarrassing" for President Kennedy to be confronted with criticism by members of both parties in Congress because the Soviet premier has dodged the issue and still seems disinclined to take all his troops out of Cuba?

A kind of pussyfoot atmosphere emerges in Washington from time to time. There is manifest worry about the sensitivity of an adversary instead of about the dangers of his policies.

Every now and then high-level announcements are delayed or certain declarations by the Department of State are withheld for fear of offending the Soviet side.

This is a strange course to pursue, and in the long run the firmness of the American position itself can be misconstrued. Sometimes this course has been erroneously called a soft policy or an appeasement.

IN THE PRESENT instance, it is simply a case of bad judgment in international dealings and is largely due to the inexperience of the administration.

Some of the experts on Soviet psychology, inside and outside the administration, are reported to have argued that President Kennedy ought not to make Mr. Khrushchev mad or to embarrass him in his domestic situation or in his relations with China.

This problem was raised in a question that was asked President

Kennedy on Dec. 17 in a television interview with a panel of reporters. Their inquiry was whether Mr. Kennedy agreed with the Russian experts who felt that he should "protect Mr. Khrushchev" because the present Soviet premier might prove to be better than any successor. The President answered:

"No, I don't think it is our duty to protect Mr. Khrushchev. This argument that his successor would be worse — I don't know what his successor will be like. What I think is our duty is to try to protect our vital interests, protect the security of the free world, and have Mr. Khrushchev understand our intentions clearly enough so that he can proceed about his business in a way which does not threaten our security, and does not bring a war."

This is a well-phrased statement of American policy, but it can be misunderstood when accompanied by a lead-in in the demands that the United States has made upon the Soviets in reference to the Cuban problem.

ORIGINALLY, for example, President Kennedy called for on-site inspection to verify whether the Soviet armament had been removed from Cuba. Not long afterward — in fact, in the same Dec. 17 interview — Mr. Kennedy showed that he had yielded on the matter of on-site inspection.

He explained it in a way that indicated a sensitivity to what might be called the Russian premier's "embarrassing" position in the negotiation.

The president was asked if there would have been any "break-through" in the effort to bring peace in the world if international inspection of Cuba had been obtained. He replied:

"No, I don't think that would have materially affected it, because I don't think we would have gotten the kind of inspection which really is necessary, because a totalitarian system cannot accept the kind of inspection which really is desirable. What you are saying, really, is that Cuba be opened, the Soviet Union be opened. They are not going to open it, because a totalitarian system must exist only in secrecy."

This implies a kind of acquiescence in the Khrushchev position, and actually may have weakened the United States negotiators on world disarmament in the conferences at Geneva in recent weeks.

Was the attainment of on-site inspection blocked because of an acceptance in advance of the assumption that the Kremlin could really not agree to the proposal anyway?

THE TRUTH is that all the concern expressed about offending the Russians through public statements demanding that the Soviets cease their military threats in Cuba and elsewhere is needless.

These don't constitute any em- cause it always operates in secrecy. The Russian press is permitted to print little, if anything, that President Kennedy or the head of any other outside government might say in criticism of Soviet policy.

For all practical purposes, there is no immediate way of offending or embarrassing Mr. Khrushchev in a negotiation.

Embarrassment for the Soviet ruler will come only when internal economic conditions have gotten so bad that the Soviet people will overthrow him, as they did the czar.

Meanwhile, the United States can only follow the principles that have been proclaimed again and again in the past and have been reiterated by Mr. Kennedy—namely, that the continued possession by the Soviet government of a military base in Cuba can only prove an embarrassing obstacle to world peace.

"He Really Meant It When He Said EVERYONE In The Administration Must Keep Physically Fit"

Contract Talk At Election Time

By VICTOR RIESEL

PITTSBURGH, PA.

It's open season on crises on this front. But you ain't seen nothin' yet. Summertime next year, '64, will see the expiration of two huge contracts — those covering the national steel industry and the auto making business. And lest we forget, summer time next year will also see the tension grow in John Kennedy's campaign for reelection.

The middle of a presidential election battle is no time for crises or labor-management deadlines. They could become the issues on which the campaign would be fought. Actually there should be no contract time deadlines. And this is not as strange as it sounds.

There is a feeling among insiders that along with political hysteria these deadlines breed recessions.

Manufacturers and merchants and dealers see a labor deadline coming. They run scared of a strike. They begin buying and stockpiling.

PRODUCTION goes round the clock. There's heavy overtime. Suddenly at some point the buying ceases. The stockpiles live off their inventories. Production slows. There are heavy layoffs. A recession sets in.

So in the steel industry, at least, there appear to be contracts without compulsory deadlines. Dave McDonald's steel workers' union does not have to reopen its contract this year after May 1 — as it can.

It does not even have to end its contract in the summer of 1964, when the basic agreement is up. It's so written that the contract need never expire — not until either side gives 90 days' notice. And it need not give it until 1965. Or later.

Instead of crisis-deadline bargaining under sleepless and hysterical pressure, there is constant bargaining.

On many basic matters the contract can be changed any time on mutual agreement. This is the meaning of the constant conferring here of the steel industry's Human Relations Committee and its many task forces.

THE CAST of characters, meaning no insult, is the same as the famed top bargaining unit of the last crisis. For the union: Dave McDonald, union president; I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer; Howard Pague, vice president; Dave Feller and Elliot Bredhoff, lawyers; and the "anonymous" economic marvel, Marvin Miller, top technician who worked out the Kaiser cost-saving sharing plan.

Speaking for the steel industry are U.S. Steel's executive vice president, Conrad Cooper, and its vice president, Heath Larry also Republic Steel's vice president, Harold "Lefty" Lumb, and Bethlehem Steel's vice president, Russell K. Branscom.

The public should know what these men and their aides talk about. One of the most grievous problems is something called "contracting out."

It's possible that a national strike could break out over this matter — possible but not probable now that it is being quietly discussed, hour after hour, day after day.

What is "contracting out"?

THERE IS, for example, a Texas steel plant into which regularly arrive some 300 laborers. They come in to do the digging, cleaning, etc. They work for an outside contractor, retained by the steel mill operators. If this "contracting out" practice were not used there would be 300 more jobs for members of the United Steelworkers Union — to which the outside laborers do not belong.

There is an open hearth steel mill in Youngstown, Ohio. It brings in "traxcavator operators." They remove the slag, which falls onto the floor of the pit below the furnace. After it cools off, of course.

In the past 18 members of the steelworkers' union rolled in on the strange caterpillar mechanism, dug up and removed the slag.

Then the company "contracted out." It hired a contractor to get the slag. And it laid off the 18 union members.

IN OTHER plants there is the matter of repairing electric motors, rewinding the armatures, for example. At some plants the steelworkers' union members used to do this. Then the steel firms contracted out. They sent the motors to shops in the neighborhood. Men in the mill were laid off.

Even window washing has been affected the same way.

There are scores of examples. The steel companies contract out to cut costs. It's less expensive than paying steel union standards, they say.

This problem now is being discussed and rediscussed by the Human Relations subcommittees. Just as, for example, Dave McDonald's proposal for a shorter work year is discussed. McDonald wants a shorter work period (not necessarily a shorter work week) with no loss in pay.

This, it is hoped, will make more jobs. In the committee this comes under the heading of "vacations of long duration."

Both sides hope they can talk and talk and finally, if the rank and file will be patient, it will be worked out without strikes, without crisis deadlines.

Quietly, this has become the new look in labor relations, we all hope.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm enraged with that secretary who was ready to flip because her "bright, attractive, well-educated" boss closed his business conversations on the telephone with "bye-bye."

It's sickening the way secretaries move in on a man's life and take him over.

She starts by reminding Mr. Worthington of his luncheon appointment. Then she reminds Mr. Worthington of his barbershop appointment. Next she tactfully suggests that he buy Mrs. Worthington something special for her birthday. (He had forgotten, so of course he's grateful.)

The next thing you know she goes along with him to select the wife's gift. After shopping they stop for a few martinis. Suddenly, Mr. Worthington becomes "Hal."

The rest is easy. Hal can't seem to get his work done during office hours — so he must work evenings. The night work doesn't sit very well at home and his wife begins to complain.

This, of course, makes her a nag. So after 20 years and three kids, Mr. Worthington decides his wife doesn't understand him. They have nothing in common, he is a bore.

Don't tell me my imagination has run wild, Miss Landers, because it just happened to me—MRS. WORTHINGTON

Dear Mrs. Worthington (which as everybody knows is a made-up name): The secretary has an inside track but so does the nurse or the dental assistant—any female whose activities bring her into close contact with a male.

Familiarity doesn't always breed contempt. Sometimes it breeds other things. I've said it before and I'll say it again—no man ever listened to the siren's call unless he was ready to hear it.

The Heels Have It

Dear Ann: You were right when you told "Irate Reader" that floors were made to walk on and she shouldn't ask guests to remove their shoes even though the spike heels were ruining her vinyl entrance way.

This is what the floor covering industry has to say: "Spiked heels are causing the biggest headache in years. They not only leave noticeable indentations in hard-surface floors, they also cut the pile and puncture the backings of carpets. What can be done? NOTHING. We can only hope for fickle fashion to dictate a change."

The woman who is considering a new floor should be told that there is no way to protect that floor against spike heels. Even asphalt and hardwood floors can be damaged.

A 112-pound girl wearing stiletto heels exerts static pressure of 4,000 pounds per square inch every time she takes a step. A 224-pound man wearing the conventional shoe exerts 28 pounds per square inch.

So please urge women to demand saner heels, Ann.—A.P.

Dear A. P.: I'm torn, my friend, I like the stiletto heels and I also like vinyl floors. I accidentally, I have both and they seem fairly compatible.

Resents In-Laws

Dear Ann: Help! I have a chance to attend the Baptist Youth Conference next July in Palestine. I went to the Toronto Conference in 1958 and it was the most inspiring experience of my life. But my husband says he will divorce me if I go.

I would be attending as a representative of my parents' evangelistic organization and they would pay my expenses. Glenn and my parents do not get along. He says this trip offer is an effort on their part to cause trouble between us.

Please, Ann, tell me what to do?—REBA.

Dear Reba: It would be nice if somehow you could get Glenn's blessings, because if you can't, I say don't go.

He resents your parents' part in this, and he may have a valid point. Either persuade him or stay home and save your marriage.

Cuba

responsible for the disappearance earlier this month of the U.S. tanker Sulphur Queen, Kennedy said he had no information indicating this.

"But certainly we would examine it," he said.

The Sulphur Queen disappeared with 39 crewmen aboard.

There is much the United States is not sure of—and may never know—about the attack on the shrimp boat.

"I don't think we know the full reasons behind this attack on this vessel, whether it was a deliberate decision by the Cuban government or a decision by the pilots involved," Kennedy said.

He noted that the 67-foot boat was lying in the water without flying any flag.

Some military officials, remarking on the same aspect, suggested the MIGs flying at perhaps 400 or 500 miles an hour may have taken the drifting boat for a derelict and aimed pot shots at it for the practice. They missed by some 40 yards, Kennedy said.

Some congressmen clamored for "hot pursuit," but Kennedy was not being rushed into this.

"I would think that when we have got a clearer pattern, then we could make a judgment on whether hot pursuit should be carried out to the shores of Cuba," the President said.

It is not known whether the four MIGs involved in Wednesday's incident were piloted by Soviets or Cubans, but Kennedy said "these planes came from Cuba and flew under a Cuban flag."

Therefore, the President said wryly, "unless the Soviet Union should claim they were flying them, we would hold the Cubans responsible."

In line with this, the U.S. government sent a sharply worded diplomatic note to Castro's government Thursday night demanding a prompt and unequivocal explanation of what was denounced as "unprovoked and willful attack" on the shrimp boat.

The note was delivered by the Swiss Embassy in Havana several hours after the Castro government rejected the U.S. allegations in advance.

The Cuban communique, broadcast by Havana Radio, said two Cuban reconnaissance planes came upon a small fishing boat which looked as if it might be one of a pair of craft allegedly seized by anti-Castro elements last week.

After satisfying themselves it was not a Cuban boat, the Havana communique said, the planes left "without firing any shots or carrying out acts of hostility against her."

At Key West, two boatmen who escaped injury in the attack said they believed the MIGs sprayed machine gun bullets. The Pentagon said action reports by the Marine pilots spoke of rocket fire.

Weather Doesn't Cool Ardor of Bargain Hunters

Frigid weather didn't cool off the warm enthusiasm of George Washington Day bargain hunters in Salem today.

A substantial number of hopeful shoppers were gathered in front of downtown stores shortly after dawn, and in some cases they brought hot coffee along to sip on as they waited for stores to open.

Five men were waiting in front of the Outdoor Supply Co. to obtain two sleeping cots which had been advertised for 22 cents each. The earliest of the prospective sleeping cot buyers was at the store front at 6:20 a.m.

Mrs. Clinton Joy of RD 3, McCrackens Corner, Tegard Road, appeared in front of the Salem Music Store before 7 a.m. and before several other bargain seekers hoping to obtain the one clock-radio to be sold for 22 cents. Mrs. Joy was successful.

Clerks at Schwartz's Inc. were a bit puzzled at one woman shopper's hurry-up, bargain counter grab—six girdles, all different sizes, at 22 cents each!

Minutes after stores opened, shoppers who had shivered out on the sidewalks were squeezing through crowds to the bargain counters inside the stores.

County Officials Explain Tax Hikes

Columbiana County Treasurer Vincent C. Judge and Auditor Kenneth Bell, members of the Columbiana County Board of Revision, explained the operation of the board at a public meeting Thursday night at the YWCA.

The officials also spoke on the increase in property taxes resulting from the reappraisal completed in December, 1961, and answered questions from the audience pertaining to assessments on their properties.

The Board of Revision is the county agency to which residents who consider their tax rates inequitable may appeal for readjustment.

The third member is Walter A. Hunston, president of the Columbiana County Board of Commissioners, who was unable to attend.

The program was sponsored by the Salem League of Women Voters.

Hints From

Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: After doing five loads of laundry every Monday morning and always ending up with about five pairs of my husband's black socks which separately (I cannot do another load of wash), I have found the easiest way to launder them. I fill the wash basin with a small amount of liquid detergent turn on the water faucet to make lots of bubbles and allow the hottest water possible to fill up the basin.

Then I use my potato masher to plunge up and down to wash the socks! With the potato masher I can use much hotter water, and never ruin my hands by putting them in hot water and strong detergents.

After the wash procedure, pull the drain and let the soapy suds run out. Turn on the faucet with hot water again, and let it run over the socks while the drain plug is still out.

Close the drain again and fill with clean rinse water. Rinse in the same way using your potato masher again.

After this, pull the drain and let all the water flow away. Let the socks become completely cool before wringing them out. This way you have also kept the hot water off your hands again.

Now, can you tell us how to get the gray residue off of black socks?

K. GRUETSMOKER.

Dear K: Unless your socks have been bleached — and I don't think they have according to your long dissertation — this gray residue is called soap film!

The cheapest, quickest, and best way I know of to remove this soap film is on that last rinse water in your socks... add about 1/4 cup of vinegar! If your soap film is very heavy this operation may have to be repeated.

But don't waste your time doing it twice each week. For the next weeks just rinse your socks in vinegar water. Do not rinse out this vinegar solution. After these socks are dried, the odor of the vinegar will completely leave!

DEAR HELOISE: This idea may help other mothers who have three or more children close together in age.

When our children are about the same size and we wash their socks it becomes a problem as to how to separate them, whose sock belongs in whose drawer, and does this navy blue one go with that black one?

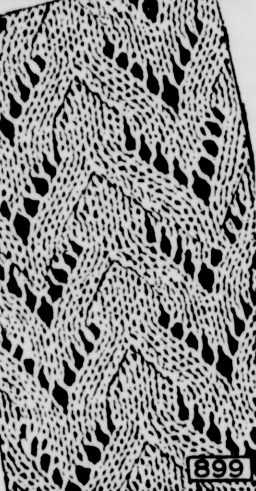

I have solved this problem by buying my youngest child all white or beige socks, the second child all red or blue or multi-colored socks, and the oldest child navy blue and dark colored. Now after I do 32 pairs of socks a week, I can look at them immediately and tell to which child they belong. It certainly saves me lots of time.

May I express my appreciation to other mothers who have written in and have helped me save time and energy by sharing their household hints.

MARY S. DEAR MARY: It's people like you who take the time to write us who keep this old world going!

HELOISE.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
The Aged Need to Keep Active

With the vast improvements in living conditions and modern medicine, there is no choice for most of us but to exceed the Biblical three score years and ten.

The problem is how to do this without being a burden to ourselves and a nuisance to everyone else. Dr. R. P. Beatty in his treatise, "The Senior Citizen" (Chas. C. Thomas, Springfield, Ill., 1962), points out quite correctly that financial security, although important, is not enough to insure a peaceful old age.

It is important for a person at any age to feel needed; to feel that someone depends on him for some kind of service, no matter how small.

This brings to mind a prominent Chicago lawyer I knew who,

After the constitution is approved, a board of directors of 27 persons will be elected. The board will seek state assistance in setting up the clinic.

A total of $15,900 has been subscribed so far for the clinic, and the state is expected to give the county twice that amount.

OSU Alumni Hear of Hike In Enrollment

"Enrollment at Ohio State University, now 30,000 students, is expected to increase by 140 per cent in the next 10 years" Rodney J. Harrison director of student financial aids and scholarship office at the university, stated when he spoke at a dinner meeting of the Ohio State University Alumni of Northern Columbiana County Wednesday.

The meeting was held at the Wick Hotel in Lisbon.

He outlined future plans for expansion at OSU and stated the need for increased funds because of the rising costs of education, pointing out that the cost for sending an average student to Ohio State was $1,600 in 1962.

Declaring that more high caliber high school graduates now attend the school, he revealed that 67 per cent of the freshmen entering the university last fall were in the upper one-third of the high school graduating class.

Emphasis was placed on explanation of what student financial aids are available, where the money is obtained and how funds are allotted to the student on a basis of need and scholarship.

Harrison said approximately 3,000 students at Ohio State are aided through scholarships, loans and fellowships.

Accompanying him was Richard Walters, director of field service at the university, who spoke briefly about the development fund.

Besides the 33 alumni who attended the dinner were several prospective OSU students and their parents.

Floyd Guterba of Columbiana, president of the organization, conducted the business meeting when eight new directors were named for the coming year.

Dr. George Jones of Salem, secretary of the group, introduced the speaker.

RETURNED TO INSTITUTION

LISBON — Richard Tucker, 14, of East Liverpool RD 1, was returned to the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster Wednesday, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

Tucker was apprehended Monday by East Liverpool police in a car stolen from C. N. Earich, Salineville RD 1. He is also suspected of taking a car from Scio, Harrison County and abandoning it about three miles west of Salineville, before taking the Earich car.

The youth had been on parole from the institution.

While the dog reared back and bared his fangs, his master calmly unbuckled Underwood of his wallet, which contained $89.

Cincinnati Triumphs 91-61 For 6th Straight Loop Title

Bearcats Eye NCAA Tourney

Wittenberg Clouts Otterbein 55-39

By The Associated Press
Cincinnati's top-ranked Bearcats have assured themselves of a crack at their third straight national basketball championship by defeating North Texas State 91-61.

Thursday night's victory wrapped up the Missouri Valley Conference title for the Bearcats and secured them a berth in the Midwest regional NCAA tournament. Cincinnati (20-1) now has won the conference title six years in a row.

The Bearcats rebounded solidly from their last outing in which Wichita defeated them 65-64 for their only loss of the campaign.

Elsewhere, the southern division of the Ohio Conference Tournament got under way in Columbus with Wittenberg, the regular season champion, and Ohio Wesleyan claiming first round victories.

Wittenberg found the going rougher than expected in the opener against Otterbein hitting and won going away, 55-39. Al Thrasher had 19 points to lead Wittenberg (19-1) while Harvey Vance and Kelley Boyer had nine each for Otterbein (2-16).

In the nightcap, Ohio Wesleyan (17-5) led all the way but had a battle on its hands before ousting Capital (7-11) 69-65. The Bishops' 6-foot-7 Barry Clemens netted 21 points, but Cap's Steve Kick took honors in that department with 25.

In tonight's second round, Kenyon tangles with Marietta (7 p.m.) and Muskingum plays Denison (9 p.m.).

At the same time, the northern division tournament gets under way at Akron with a tripleheader. Hiram and Mount Union get the action under way at 6 p.m. Akron meets Oberlin (8 p.m.) and Wooster faces Baldwin-Wallace in the nightcap.

Two other games were played Thursday night involving Ohio teams. Youngstown defeated Hillsdale (Mich.) 76-42 on the losers' floor, and Bluffton lost to Huntington (Ind.) on the winners' court 89-73.

Reilly, McKinley Also Triumph

4th Street Posts 7th In Row In Mickey McGuire League

Fourth Street grade school rolled to its seventh straight win by defeating Prospect 35-19 in Mickey McGuire League action at the losers' gymnasium Thursday.

In other games Reilly trimmed Buckeye 23-16 at home and McKinley clipped St. Paul's 28-23 at the losers' school.

After the score was tied 5-5 in the initial period, Prospect pulled ahead and took an 11-10 margin at intermission. Fourth Street retaliated to take a 21-11 spread at the end of the third stanza.

Barns took scoring honors for the winners with 21 points. Jones led the losers with seven markers, and Cody chipped in with six.

Buckeye took an 11-0 lead in the first frame, but Reilly stormed back and shut out the losers in the second session to take a 14-11 margin by half time. Reilly also led 17-14 at the end of the third canto.

Hrvatn paced the winners with 23 points. Shoff chalked up eight markers for the losers.

St. Paul's held an 8-5 lead in the initial period. The contest was tied 11-11 at half time. McKinley had a 17-16 lead at the end of the third session.

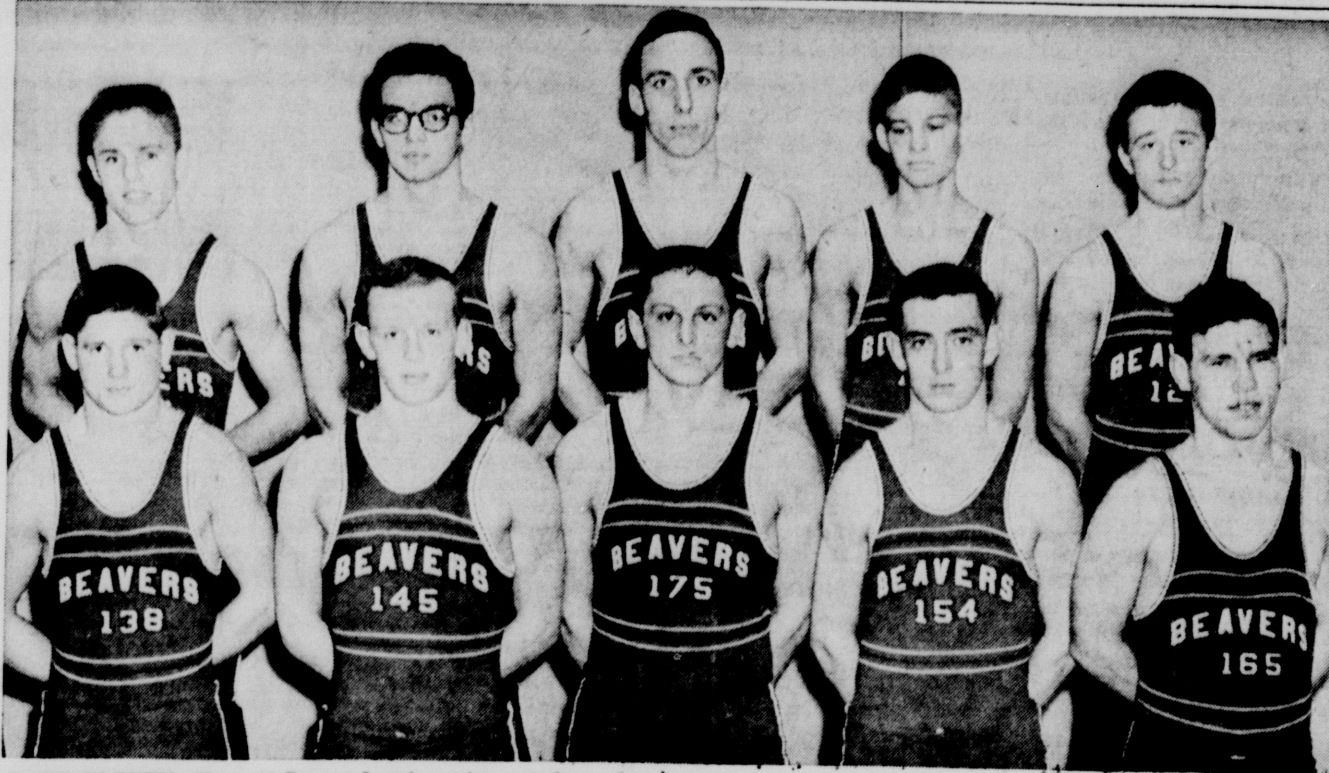

Ward collected eight points to spark the winners. Scullion tallied 13 markers for the losers.

Cage Semi-Finals Set At Junior High Today
2 Salem, 2 Liverpool Teams Advance In 8th Grade Event

Two Salem teams and two from East Liverpool will compete in the semi-finals of the Eighth Grade Basketball Tournament at Junior High gymnasium today.

O'Rourke's Matmen Win 10 Trophies In 4 Years

'Wrestling Makes Good Grid Players,' Beaver Coach Says

By GLENN SCHOTTEN
"Wrestling makes good football players. It builds self confidence in boys. They know if they can wrestle an opponent to the gym mat, they can pin down a back on the gridiron."

You might call it philosophy, but with young Beaver Local Coach Jack O'Rourke, who knows both sports, it's sound strategy. His records in both football and wrestling give weight to his argument for wrestling as an adjunct to gridiron jousts.

THIS YEAR HIS MAT team racked up victories over 13 eastern Ohio schools, many of which are goiliaths of the gridiron. Only Martins Ferry bested his matmen, 27-16.

Prospects for emerging as district or state competitors are bright for his top wrestlers competing tonight and Saturday in the sectional wrestling meet at Canton Field House. Eleven of his best boys are competing. Other schools represented are Canton Central Catholic, Glenwood, Lincoln, Canton McKinley, Canton Timken, North Canton, Louisville, Massillon, Waynedale, Jackson, Tulasu, Marlington, Northwest, Perry and Wooster.

IF THE BOYS BOUNCE off the mats with victories in the Canton meet, they will go on for the district meet at Kent State University March 1 and 2. Only the toughest will end up in the state matches at Ohio State University March 8-9.

This year the Beavers were most impressive in their wins over Steubenville 55-0, and Boardman 45-0. Other victories were over Boardman 42-5 in the first match of the season with that school; Warren Howland 31-16; Bridgeport 37-6; Weirton 23-18; East Liverpool 36-18; Warren Harding 35-7; Southside, Pa., 24-23; North Canton 19-17; Carrollton 37-8; Wooster 23-14; and Crestwood near Ravenna, 36-3.

THE 31-YEAR-OLD COACH has been turning out highly successful wrestling aggregations ever since he came to Beaver Local in 1958. The start was slow in 1959 when the team posted a 5-7 record.

By 1960 the record improved to 11-1. The slate was clean in 1961 at 11-0 and last season's record was 11-3.

Carl Hoppel brought fame to his alma mater by winning the state championship as a freshman in 1959, an incredible feat. Hoppel compiled a sensational 97-2 during his schoolboy career under O'Rourke.

Beaver Local wrestlers have won 10 trophies in four years of competition. They were district champions in 1961 and runner-up the other three years.

O'ROURKE, A NATIVE of Wellsville who had been a burly footballer for the Colorado State Teachers College but never wrestled, says he can spot the difference in his boys who are both gridders and matmen and those who compete in football only.

This is not meant as a discredit to the boys who do not wrestle, but O'Rourke says the grappling gridders are more self-confident and are the toughest performers.

His football squad stacked up a 7-3 record last season including a sweet win over favored East Liverpool.

Not only for this reason, but because O'Rourke considers wrestling as a terrific sport, would the coach like to see wrestling expand to more schools in Columbus County and the district. East Liverpool is presently the only other county school, offering wrestling.

STANDOUT WRESTLERS FOR the Beavers this season are Jim Obney, 103-pound junior with a 13-1 record; Farnum Shasteen, 112-pound sophomore, 10-4; Lester McKenzie 127-pound senior 13-1; Warren Bradley, 133-pound junior, 8-2; Gary Bookman, 145-pound senior 13-1; Keith Berger 175-pound senior 8-2-1; and heavyweight Ken Matheny, who compiled a 10-1-1 record.

O'Rourke is delighted that graduation will mean the loss of only three boys from his high-powered wrestling team. It also means he'll have a solid corps of rugged boys to coach when the grid practice opens next September.

Battles Salineville Tonight

United Is Beaten, Eyes Tourney Tilt

United High School dropped its season's final against East Canton 72-56 in an independent basketball clash on the winners' court Thursday night.

Coach Larry Joseph and the Golden Eagles travel to Struthers Field House to take on Salineville in the first round of the Class A Sectional Tournament tonight at 8:20.

One of the five victories recorded by United was over Salineville Feb. 9. The Golden Eagles have lost 12 times during the campaign.

East Canton picked up its eighth win in 13 starts. The winners broke a 13-13 first period tie to take a 35-25 margin at intermission, and a 54-43 spread at the conclusion of the third stanza.

United tried 75 shots from the field and canned 22 for 29.3 per cent. From the foul line the Golden Eagles tossed in 12 of 21 for 57 per cent.

The winners attempted 89 field goals and swished the nets 27 times for 30.3 per cent. At the charity circle they hit on 18 of 29 for 62 per cent.

Don Farnsworth took scoring honors for East Canton with 25 points. Ken Barrick chipped in with 13. Bill McGranahan led United with 19 markers.

East Canton's reserve squad defeated United junior varsity 57-45.

Wynn Works Out With Chicago

Tebbetts Warns His Players About Night Life At Camp

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts announced his itinerary for the baseball season includes hopping into a few night clubs. Early Wynn strolled into the Chicago White Sox camp. Ken Retzer walked out of Washington's.

"This is no gag," assured Wynn. "I wouldn't want to go through this training grind if I didn't think I could make it."

Manager Al Lopez adopted a wait-and-see attitude. "He'll have to prove himself," he said simply.

Retzer took his walk out of salary discussion with the Senators' general manager, George Selkirk. He said he'll check out of his motel unless there's a change by Saturday.

Bellows Valvair, Sosbe's Win In Slo-Break Loop

Bellows Valvair knocked off Industrial Mining 43-31 and Sosbe's ripped Willy's 70-37 in Slo-Break League competition at the Memorial Building Thursday night.

Rodis was awarded a forfeit over E. W. Bliss.

All five starters scored in double figures for Sosbe's who led all the way by period scores of 17-9, 35-15 and 56-37.

George Alek took scoring honors with 28 points. Jerry Lepping chipped in with 12, and Tony Alek, Jim Harrigan and Jerry Jeffries each had 10. Jim Barnes paced Willy's with 13 markers.

Bellows Valvair led all the way with period scores of 16-6, 18-13 and 26-21.

Bill Ferguson led the winners with 18 points. Mark Headland and Walt Rutzky paced Industrial Mining with 11 points apiece.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

It doesn't hurt to be nice to people. A man came into the Country Store Saturday. It seems like a fellow came into his office rather put out. He had just come from Washingtonville. He was looking for a factory that makes pulleys. While looking for the plant he drifted through the little red jewel. Naturally he was arrested and fined. He said he was not treated very nice. He said no orders for that town. I believe a plant in Salem got the order. He said he thought it was about $75,000. Oh well I'll still get part of it here at the Country Store. I have a lot of Salem business.

Country Store Club Steak Dinner Winner: Helen Taylor, Leetonia, Ohio

Announcing... DrugTax

Ever wish, at income tax time, that you had a complete record of every cent you spent for drugs and drug products throughout the year—and how much of it was legally deductible? That kind of a record could save you money. And that kind of a record can now be yours, every year, absolutely free of charge. This new service is called DrugTax. We are making it available to all of our customers immediately, free of charge, as another way of saying "thank you" for their patronage. You would be surprised at the number of drug and medical supplies that can be of a deductible nature—items such as antiseptics, aspirin, cough and cold preparations, and hundreds of others. Indeed, the American taxpayer has been losing millions of dollars annually because he hasn't been aware of how many drug items are legally deductible. But you must be able to offer proof of purchase in order to claim such items in preparing your federal income tax return. And when you buy from us, you get that proof—in the form of an annual record, mailed in February.

Come in today and let us tell you more about DrugTax. And from now on, buy all of your drug and medical supplies from the store that gives you the free DrugTax record.

Many of our customers don't realize how many products they buy from us may be deductible. Not only prescriptions, but also . . .
